

NATIONAL BARBECUE WEEK

Pitmaster Symposium SMOKE, FIRE, FLAVOR

AN EVENING WITH FIVE MID-ATLANTIC BBQ ICONS

Featuring

Andrew "Drew" Darneille is the Owner and Pitmaster of Smokecraft Modern Barbecue in Arlington, VA. His competition team has won over 250 Awards. While known for his Ribs and Pork on the competition circuit, his specialty is "modern" barbecue, which he defines as continuing to push the boundaries of what barbecue is and can be.

Amy Overbey is the driving force behind Team Meat Coma BBQ. She's earned multiple Grand Championships and countless top ten category awards. As a standout female pitmaster, she placed 3rd at Fire & Ice, a national all-women's BBQ competition. Known for her bold, flavor-forward style, Amy brings heart, creativity, and serious heat to every cook.

Luke Darnell of Old Virginia Smoke entered his first BBQ competition in 2013 and never looked back. Since then, he's earned numerous Grand Championships across the Mid-Atlantic and beyond, cooking at events nationwide. The world of competition BBQ has deepened his passion for outdoor cooking and sharing that love with the people who matter most.

Norris Sydnor is the pitmaster of Good Googly Goo BBQ, a top-performing competition team founded in 2018. They've earned numerous 1st Place and Top 10 finishes, multiple Grand and Reserve Grand Championships, were named the 2023 KCBS Chicken Team of the Year, and the 2022 Reserve Grand Champion title at the Jack Daniel's World Invitational.

Andy Majett / Ribs by Andy, first competed in the National Capital Barbecue Battle in 1999, finishing building his first wood-fired smoker the day before! He's competed every year since. Highlights include receiving the Maurice Evans Spirit of Barbecue Award in 2003, and placing first in chicken in 2005. In between Battles, Andy caters events large and small, and has cooked for numerous special events.
